

Enhancing the Recovery-Oriented Systems of Care in Pennsylvania: Helping Individuals with Substance Use Disorders and Their Families

May 15–16, 2017 | Harrisburg Hilton, 1 North 2nd Street, Harrisburg, PA 17101

About the Conference

Recovery-Oriented Systems of Care (ROSC) are networks of formal and informal services developed and mobilized to promote community health and wellness for all. We are challenged to revisit our prevention, early intervention, treatment, and recovery practices and our collaborations with people in recovery, families, communities, and service systems to ensure the best outcomes for individuals who have or are at risk of developing a behavioral health condition. This two day conference will focus on strategies and interventions that will impact the domains of:

- Family involvement in treatment and recovery.
- Current trends within the opioid epidemic.
- Community connections and the impact of peers and resources.
- The use of medication-assisted treatment.
- Innovations being implemented by outpatient substance use disorder and physical health providers.

This conference is intended for individuals in recovery, their families, social workers, psychologists, nurses, and others interested in behavioral health services. The conference is free of charge for Community Care members and their families, as well as medical residents and students. For behavioral health professionals, the cost of this conference is $85.00, which includes CEUs and lunch.

This conference is co-sponsored by Adams, Allegheny, Berks, Blair, Carbon, Chester, Clinton, Erie, Lycoming, Monroe, Pike, and York counties, as well as the Behavioral Health Alliance of Rural Pennsylvania (BHARP) and the Northeast Behavioral Health Care Consortium.
